The piles of small change that people accumulate at home add up to big potential for banks. CoinCasher™ is the coin deposit system to unlock that potential by providing your customers with an easy way to cash in coins.

Every year, more and more coins are produced and circulated by governments worldwide. This is because, as studies in the US and Europe show, many people accumulate coins at home, taking them out of circulation.

In the United Kingdom the average household has £27 of saved coins. A survey shows that 50% of the population would use a coin deposit machine to process them if available locally. CoinCasher™ is the ideal way for you to meet this demand.

CoinCasher™ requires minimal maintenance and staff training. A large coin storage makes it possible to let the machine run during a long period without any service. The unit takes up less than one square metre of space – offering a small footprint and a big step in improving your bank's cash-handling efficiency and customer service.

A better service for customers

Improved availability

CoinCasher™ is a self-service concept – customers can deposit coins whenever it suits them, rather than being restricted to normal bank opening hours.

Better access to good advice

As bank staff will be less involved in handling cash, there will be more time for them to provide customers with information and advice on bank services.

Considerable time-savings

Customers no longer have to spend valuable time in a queue waiting for bank staff to manually handle coin deposits.

Faster direct deposits

The deposited cash amount can be transferred instantly on-line to the customer's account via CoinCasher™.

A range of benefits for the bank

Attracts new customers

Offering the benefits of CoinCasher™ demonstrates a clear commitment to customer service. It provides a popular service that attracts new customers, acts as a "door-opener" for other services and gives the bank a competitive edge on rivals.

Cost-effective cash handling

With CoinCasher™, the bank can minimise costly, labour-intensive coin deposit handling and release staff to concentrate on more profitable activities.

Improved customer service

The bank can provide coin deposit facilities 24/7, offering the customer a convenient alternative to manual cash transactions during limited bank opening hours.

The commission option

One option for banks is to charge a commission for the coin deposit service, deducted from the counted value. This could be applied to customers who do not deposit their money into one of the bank's accounts or to non-customers who exchange their deposit receipt for cash.

Investing in CoinCasher™ not only saves time for the staff, but also increases freedom of choice for customers. The staff time saved by minimising manual cash handling is in itself usually enough to justify an investment in CoinCasher™.

Once staff are released from manual cash handling duties there are greater opportunities for pursuing a profitable consulting role with customers that leads to new business. Staff also benefit from a more stimulating working environment.

CoinCasher™ enables you to cut cash handling costs, opens up transaction commission options, and enables staff to work in a more profitable role – a combination that ensures a fast return on your initial investment.

CoinCasher™ is provided as a recommended base unit offering all the benefits described in this brochure. However, the unit can also be tailored to your bank's unique needs with a number of modular enhancements.

The range of options includes adding a sorting function that automatically separates different coin denominations. Various types of card readers are available and the unit can easily be equipped with a single or bundle note reader to make it possible for customers to deposit the total daily takings. CoinCasher™ also comes with a comprehensive kit that includes staff support tools and marketing material to attract new customers.

CoinCasher™ marketing kit

SCAN COIN offers a range of material and activities to help banks get started and gain maximum benefits from day one. The kit is designed to draw customers' attention to the machine and help them use it by utilising tools such as advertisements, user guides, quick guides, coin bags etc:

CoinCasher™ BY SCAN COIN

CoinCasher™ — a customer-friendly concept

CoinCasher™ is a freestanding system that accepts coins in a variety of chosen denominations. After quickly and accurately counting the coins, it produces a receipt for the total value of the deposit. Money is transferred instantly to an account or can be cashed at the cashier's desk.

CoinCasher™ is simple and intuitive to use. Instructions are provided on the front of the unit, ensuring problem-free self-service and no need for extra assistance from staff.

Once coins are deposited in the tray, CoinCasher™ begins an accurate high-speed count that automatically removes dirt and off-sorts counterfeit coins and foreign objects.

At the end of the count, CoinCasher™ prints a receipt, which can be personalised with your brand name and enhanced with security features.

The customer can choose to transfer the money instantly into an on-line account or take the receipt to a cashier and exchange it for cash.

It's that easy. Customers appreciate the opportunity to convert accumulated coins into more manageable cash or an instant deposit in their bank account.
